Photosynthesis converts light energy into chemical energy stored in glucose.

The Calvin cycle fixes carbon dioxide in the stroma of chloroplasts.

Chlorophyll absorbs mostly blue and red light, reflecting green.